Security

Our clients trust us to manage the security of their daily operations. In every project, we integrate the most advanced intelligence methods, planning skills and unique technologies. Each of our project managers has proven international experience in managing large-scale and complex operations.

Maritime

FourTroop's Maritime Division provides high end security solutions to the shipping industry, private companies and the governmental sector.

Intelligence

Our intelligence division provides wide range of services. The division is led by former experts from the intelligence branches of the military, police and security services.

Medical

FourTroop offers a wide range of medical services. The company's directors are doctors and paramedics that provide the highest level of medical services available in the market today.

Procurement

FourTroop can provide a one-stop-shop for all security and defense equipment and technology. Our experts are familiar with the latest developments in the security and defense markets.

Cyber Security

Our team of cyber experts includes cyber-defense and cyber-attack specialists, network security specialists, forensic investigation experts, and instructors in the areas of hacking, security awareness, penetration testing, CISO and information security and more.

National Projects

States are trusting FourTroop to manage the security of their national assets.

The process begins with an assessment of the current strategic situation and threats, the challenge that needed to be solved, the budget and the existing means. This is achieved by sitting with decision makers and analyzing together with them how to achieve best outcomes.

Consulting

The objective of the security assessment is to prevent crime and terror while maintaining the highest standards of security professionalism and operational continuity. These skills and approaches form the core of FourTroop's company ethos and culture, and are embedded in each project and assignment.
